

Statement on the Use of Artificial Intelligence

The Editorial Board of the journal “Auezov University” acknowledges the potential of generative AI tools to assist authors. However, the use of such tools imposes certain obligations on authors to comply with academic ethics and copyright requirements.

In accordance with the recommendations of COPE (Committee on Publication Ethics), AI tools do not have legal personality and cannot assume responsibility for the content of an article, the accuracy of data, or compliance with ethical standards.

Authors bear sole responsibility for all information contained in the manuscript, including the absence of plagiarism, accurate citation, and the absence of false facts generated by AI.
